

Amsterdam renewable electricity

Overview

---

Discover all about Amsterdam's journey to becoming a global hub for renewable energy - marked by a series of milestones and modern-day innovations from wind and solar energy to the electrification of city infrastructure. These key facts. New findings reveal how Amsterdam can accelerate its transition towards so-called Positive Energy Districts, where clean, useful energy such as solar electricity and heat are generated and consumed locally. Between May and July, over half of the electricity generated in the Netherlands was from renewable sources, and that share reached as high as 57 percent in July. This policy helps achieve climate goals and supports the ambition of becoming climate neutral by 2050.
